Xenophobe is a 1987 arcade game developed and published by Bally Midway. Starbases, moons, ships, and space cities are infested with aliens, and the players have to kill the aliens before each is completely overrun. The screen is split into three horizontally-scrolling windows, one for each of up to three players, yet all players are in the same game world.

UPDATED 24 January 2012 What We Need for 21st Century Combat? "The way to build aircraft or anything else worthwhile is to think out quietly every detail, analyze every situation that may possibly occur, and, when you have it all worked out in practical sequence in your mind, raise heaven and earth and never stop until you have produced the thing you have started to make."

Reading the Defense- It is important that both the quarterback and the receivers be able to read the coverage of the defense. The quarterback needs to be able to choose the receiver he is going to throw the ball. The receivers need to be able to recognize the coverage, too, so that they can make necessary

The introduction of DSP (digital signal processing) dramatically changed the implementation of dynamics processors. In traditional analog designs, there is no practical means of "looking ahead" or statistically analyzing the content of a signal, instead requiring a function to respond to events that have already occurred.

The above table represents only one page from The Vienna Telephone Book (2007). Its four columns contain the following second names: Horvarth, Horvat, Horvath. All of them are variations of the standard Croatian name that we use today: Hrvat (HR), the English version of which is Croat or Croatian. Please, note that we do not claim that all these persons from the book are Croats by nationality.
