While many languages have numerous dialects that differ in phonology, the contemporary spoken Arabic language is more properly described as a continuum of varieties. This article deals primarily with Modern Standard Arabic (MSA), which is the standard variety shared by educated speakers throughout Arabic-speaking regions. MSA is used in writing in formal print media and orally in newscasts ...

Highlights Religion-based objections to vaccination date to circa 1796. Over 60 vaccine-preventable outbreaks in religious settings have been described. Ostensibly religious reasons to decline vaccination may mask safety questions. Acceptability may hinge on transformation, dilution, purpose, and alternatives. Important reasons to vaccinate include preserving health and duty to community.
