The most successful organizations understand that the purpose of any business is to create value for customers, employees, and investors, and that the interests of these three groups are inextricably linked. Therefore, sustainable value cannot be created for one group unless it is created for all of them. The first focus should be on creating [€]

Out of the three studies, London et al.'s (2010) constraint framework is the most elaborate. He differentiates between productivity/value creation constraints and transactional/value capture constraints. While the former occur within the boundaries of the firm and mostly concern its productivity and/or value creation, the latter emerge outside the boundaries of the firm and affect its ...

A value chain is a set of activities that a firm operating in a specific industry performs in order to deliver a valuable product or service for the market. The concept comes through business management and was first described by Michael Porter in his 1985 best-seller, Competitive Advantage: Creating and Sustaining Superior Performance.. The idea of the value chain is based on the process view ...
